“Fear outs when the Truth is out of alignment, and opinions prevail.”

- for J M Doe. 2018

Based on historical events, this book is a work of fiction, because truth is a perspective. Personal details, such as names, age, gender, and circumstances of real people, have been changed in order to maintain confidentiality.

Chapter 2: The Separation

Just after sunset, a new moon rose invisible above the Eastern horizon. A small head of thick dark hair crowned, smeared with blood and white vernix. I was born on the day after Good Friday. At exactly 6.30 pm, my tiny delicate body slid safely out into the big bright world.

Over two hundred babies are born every minute. Miraculously no two babies are born identical, including identical twins. Although early cell division may produce embryos that carry identical genetic material, environmental influences cause variation as the embryos develop. Nature ensures that epigenetic environmental factors play their role. Biodiversity is nature’s law. Survival of the fittest through dominance is a common misperception, survival is granted through adaptation. Nature creates and differentiates, nature doesn’t discriminate. Biodiversity is a natural law and is the foundation of evolution.

Despite being completely unique, there was nothing remarkable about my arrival. However I was born at a certain time, on a particular day, at a specific location on planet Earth. Travelling at different speeds due to gravitational forces, the same alignment of the moon, planets, and stars will not occur again for another 25,000 years...
